FARMER

In 2009, Kristina Dodge went from private jets to food stamps in the blink of an eye. Once a California rain maker, she soon became a single mother of four drowned in debt.

In the midst of doors closed, backs turned and the spread of negative media, fear became her business partner. She grounded herself with good friendships and dirt as a cannabis farmer.

Born and raised in Nebraska, to immigrant parents, daily family life was about survival through hard work, hunger, humility and hand-made clothing.

Returning to a familiar daily struggle became the road that centered her. Strangely, it was not a more difficult road than the one she lived on as a billionaire, where she mingled with a president, governor and celebrities. It was, however, the higher road where she met her true internal strength.

Indeed, she is so good, I watch and listen to her carefully—not only because of the topic but to see what I can pick up to improve my own speaking ability.”

Kristina will move you to the edge of your seat, when you hear or read her stories. Her overarching message is one of hope and a belief in good and hard-working people.

For those trying to start over, she suggests that being stripped of financial wealth, is what cultivates internal grace.

As the longtime host of Dialogue with Doti and Dodge on Southern California’s PBS affiliate, Kristina has spoken in front of thousands at the California Women’s Conference. She was recently seen on Inside Edition, and Europe’s RTL Cable Network.

Parenting a Teenager during Tough Times & Peace Times. In this presentation—aimed at the parents of teens—Kristina shares her keys for parenting a teenager through times of crisis...providing lessons that are equally relevant in times of peace.

“Kristina’s personal, triumphant story will touch your heart and inspire you to new levels of what you thought impossible. It is extraordinary that grace, courage, beauty, and so much love can come together in one package. I highly recommend Kristina’s presentation to anyone struggling to overcome life’s great trials, tragedies, or transitions. Once you hear her story, you will truly understand that nothing is more powerful than the human spirit.” –
Carrie Flintom, Founder, Heroes in Heels

“Kristina Dodge has a unique ability to connect with audiences, share captivating stories, and provide meaningful, lasting wisdom all at once. All of this is done with humor, grace, and a genuine sense of humility. As a speaker and moderator at the California Women’s Conference, I have been overwhelmingly impressed with her skills and talents in front of a group—but more than that, I’ve been impressed by the heart that each of her presentations is imbued with.” -
Michelle Patterson, Chairwoman, California Women’s Conference

“Kristina is one of those rare speakers a person looks forward to seeing in action. She is articulate, perceptive and highly informed. Her speeches are imbued with sharp insight, clear organization, objective reasoning, and just right touch of humor. She exudes charm!”- Jim Doti, President, Chapman University
